HARRY McDONALD

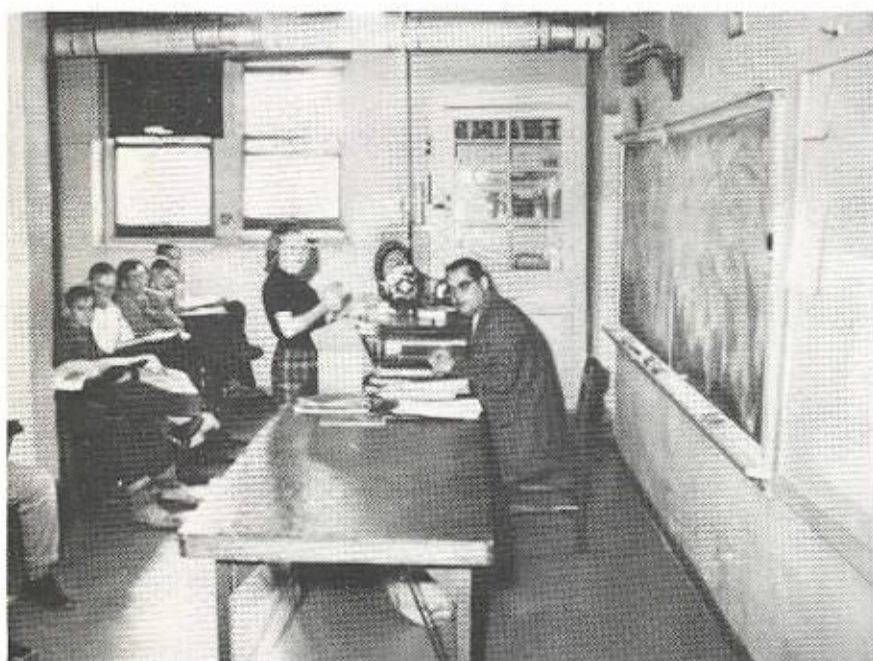

We the students of Dunkirk High School are very proud to dedicate our yearbook to a member of the athletic committee who we feel did an outstanding job in spearheading the campaign for our new athletic field. Mr. McDonald's untiring efforts and dedicated work for the school and community are greatly appreciated.

Looks like you're going the wrong way Ward Whalin! He's playing it cool though. Those girls are heading into "suicide hall."

"Just a pinch of salt," Mrs. Black tells Mr. Beeson and Mr. Fuelling. Wonder what they're really talking about?

We are fortunate indeed to have Mr. Luker on our teaching staff....teacher, great philosopher and famous biologist. Here he is conducting a junior high class.

Head librarian, Mrs. Hobson, and two of her assistants, Jean Kegerreis and Alice Shoults glance through a newly purchased Bird Guide.

Do You

Remember when school began with the usual confusion of arranging schedules for a new term? Old friendships were renewed and new friends were found. As time passed we recognized our responsibilities as students and settled down to a regular routine of classes. Spare time took us to the library or to the lab.

In the first of November, basketball became the uppermost subject in everyone's mind. Enthusiasm reached a fever pitch by the night of our homecoming game against an old rival, the Redkey Wolves. The going was rough, but it only marked the beginning victory in a tough-scheduled season. Remember how we cheered for our Speedcats through the good and the bad times?

Soon we took a recess from our studies for Christmas vacation. With semester exams looming ahead, we returned earnestly to our studies. After the exams, we enjoyed another well-earned break before the start of the second semester. Some of us had the same schedule while many of us added new classes and dropped others.

Soon the sectional tournament was pressing upon us. Remember all those pep rallies in the gym? Basketball is only a sidelight of our school life, so after our victories and bonfire celebrations, our thoughts turned to spring and then summer vacation.

In May the seniors left for a week in Washington, D.C. and New York City. They returned to face final exams with the rest of us. For them there was Commencement, the end of a long journey and the beginning of a new life. For others it was a brief rest before the fall school term.

Remember When?

You'll remember when these events happened, and you'll ponder over them and others, as you follow us through the 1960 Silicon.

Everyday School Life

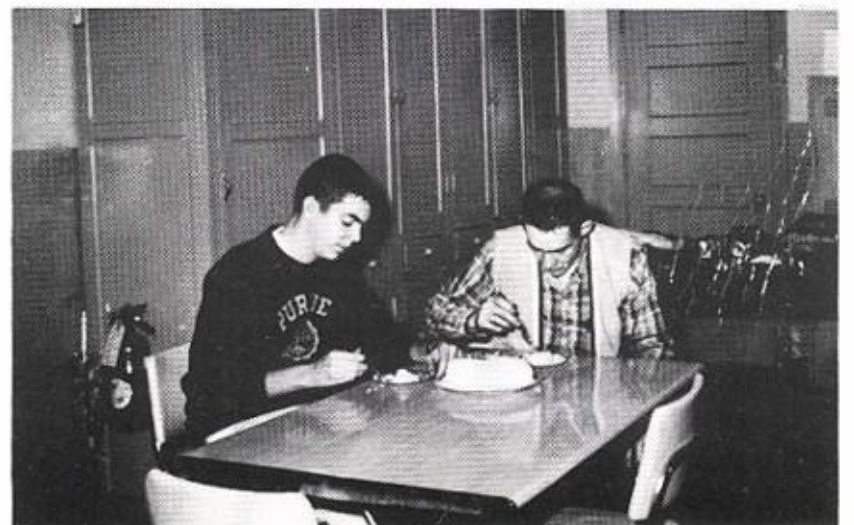

Upper left: Geraldine Vickers volunteers one hour of her school time to be an office aid. Here, she is shown sorting grade cards after a grading period. Her other duties are: collecting absentee and tardy lists, preparing, passing out announcements, and carrying notes for teachers and administrators.

Upper right: Some home economics students judge a pie made by Kathy Bittner. Pleasant smells drift throughout the school telling us that the home ec. classes are busy learning to cook meals and pastry. They also learn to sew!

Lower left: "Confusion causes frustration which brings on agitation which causes confusion that...." well describes the bookstore before sessions and between classes. The Principal and his secretary and their office aids do the best job possible keeping order in the hustle and bustle. We're lucky to have a bookstore where we can get all necessary supplies for all classes from mechanical drawing to art. We can even purchase extra books.

Lower right: Editor Dave Gaunt and photographer Dave Baldwin take time out from Silicon work to eat some pie they came across in the home economics room.

Wendell White directs the painting of the massive Christmas decorations on the windows.

The Christmas Window

Every year at Christmas time the art classes decorate the school doors and windows. This year a few art students, under the direction of senior Wendell White, arranged a large, sectioned painting of the Mother Mary and the Christ Child on the windows above the school's main entrance. During the evening hours the painting was lighted from inside making the painting visible from outside.

The finished window.

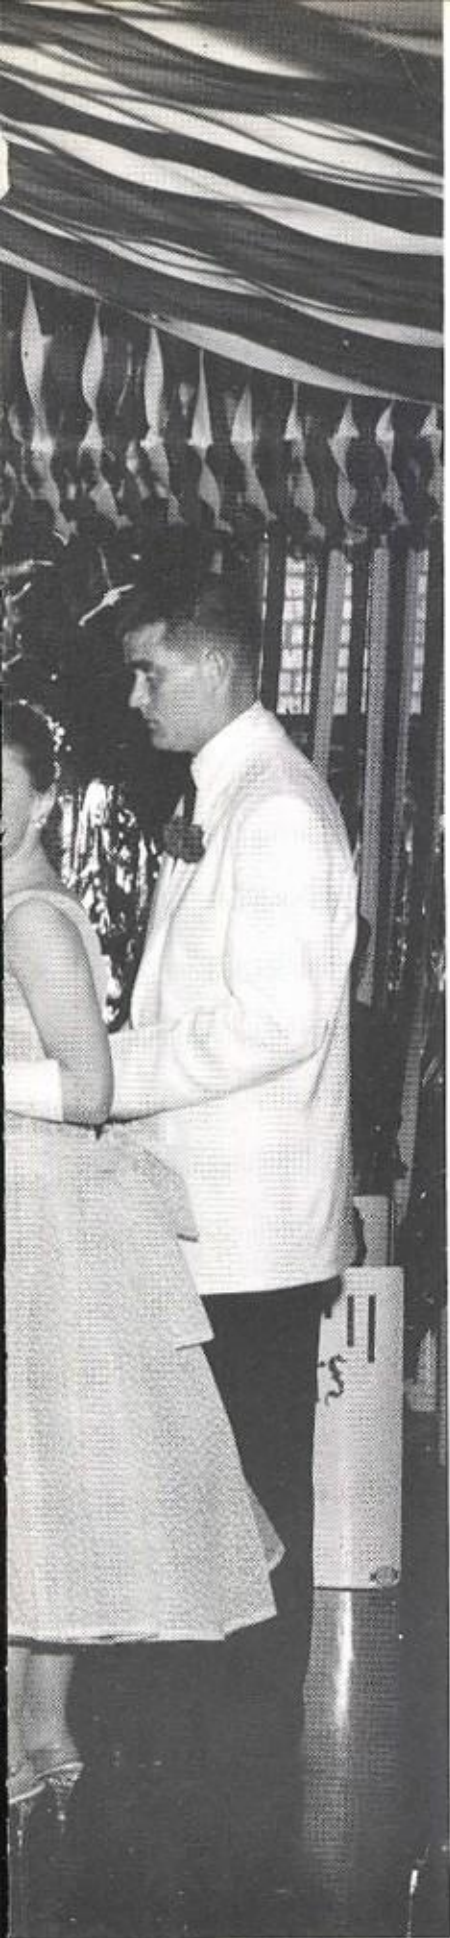

Wendell and Troy, on the scaffold, and Tom Speidel and Mose Garringer admire the finished window.

Junior-Senior Prom

Ann Taylor and Tom Smith were crowned Queen and King of the 1959 Prom. Their courts consisted of Penny Bennett, Alice Shoults, Delite Wise, Bob Irelan, Larry Jones, and R. P. McCune. The prom was followed by an all-night party, sponsored by the Dunkirk merchants. The juniors and seniors saw "Tom Thumb" at the Main Theatre. Then they were entertained at the American Legion by a variety act. Breakfast was served at the Elks Lodge. The festivities ended with a record-hop held at the Moose Lodge.

The Grand March signaled the end of the dance.

The backdrop, "Moonlight and Roses," was painted by Wendell White.

The Starlighters provided the music.

Hi-Y, Y-Teen Dance

Hi-Y and Y-Teen members dance to the music of the "Card Quinette" at their annual formal dance. This year's dance had as its theme "My Funny Valentine." Sonja Camesasca was crowned Queen and Penny Bennett was selected by the Hi-Y members as their Sweetheart.

Red and white crepe paper and paper hearts carried out this year's theme, "My Funny Valentine."

The "Cards" tune up before the dance.

Dave Casterline crowns Penny Bennett Sweetheart.

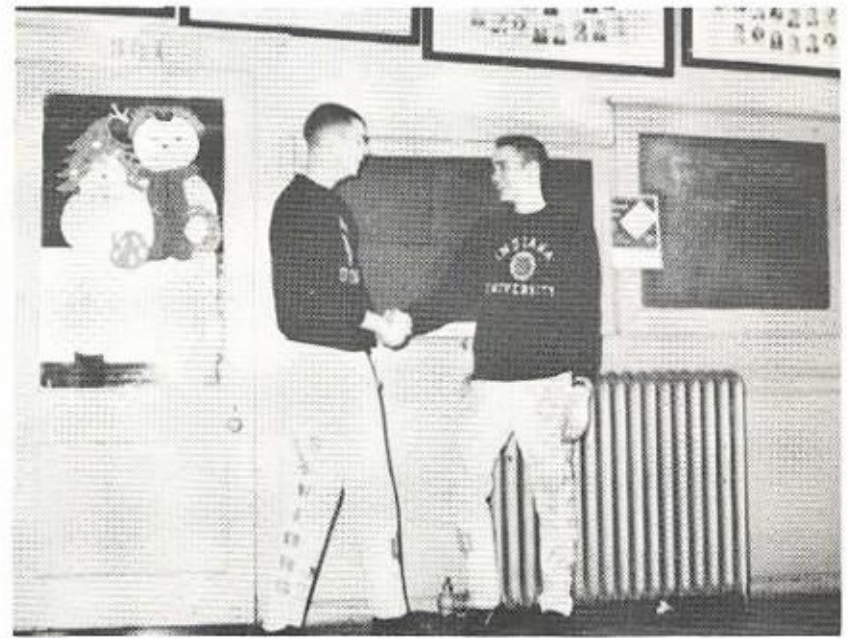

Senior Cords

This year marked a change in some of the senior girls' cords. They were made out of rose, light blue, light green, white, and orchid corduroy. Majority ruled though, and many were of the traditional cream corduroy. Above Jack Inman and Jack Rhodes are admiring each other's cords.

Thanks, Sarge! Phil Crouch very politely holds the chorus room door for Tom Speidel. The picture was posed though.

Linda Ritter

Miss Linda Ritter, Head Majorette of the Dunkirk High School Band, will be hard to replace next year. During this time Linda has earned several awards. She placed second in strutting and a first in the Novelty Division for an acrobatic - baton routine at Muncie. She also received fifth place at the NBTA contest in Richmond. Linda entered the Ft. Wayne district music contest and placed second with a vocal solo. She is a member of the National Baton Twirling Association, Drum Majorettes of America, and United States Twirling Association.

Marilyn Shoults has been in the band for three years. This year she won the following medals: Muncie - 2nd place, Elkhart - 3rd, Greenville, Ohio - 2nd, Richmond - 2nd and 4th. She has also done solo twirling in Dunkirk. Marilyn takes private lessons from Carolyn Stine, head twirler at Muncie Central.

Marilyn Shoults

The Dunkirk High School Band had many extra-curricular activities. In the summer the band marched at the Jay County Fair, had concerts at the park, and had a band camp at Lake Webster. As soon as school started the band started practicing for the Bluffton Street Fair. This year it tied for third place. When basketball season started, the band was again on hand to add color at the home games. Scattered throughout the year were concerts. The last event of the school year for the band is its participation in the Memorial Day Activities.

Remember when we cheered

Our Speedcats fought their way through a victorious season under the direction of a new coach, Jack Cross. We were fortunate this season to have a capable assistant coach, Fred Smith. The freshman team was coached by Don Casterline, and Lou Watson led the high school baseball through a winning season.

More Seniors!

The seniors pictured on this page represent a fraction of the many seniors who devote their spare time helping the faculty and taking part in school activities. Although a somewhat mischievous, but a happy, friendly class, the seniors will certainly be missed after graduation.

The 1960 seniors sold magazines, pecans, and Christmas cards to help finance their spring class trip to historical Virginia, Washington, D. C., and New York City.

During the year there was only enough time for one class swimming party held at the Muncie YWCA.

Juniors earn money for their trip.

Compliments of Dr. J. M. Scribner

Remember when the teachers

Mrs. Weaver, Mr. Casterline, and Mrs. Stock, above, represent a small part of our faculty. This year marked our first experiment with a student teacher. Mr. Fuelling, a Ball State student, worked with us in the science and math departments. A few of our teachers, in their spare time, sponsored our classes and our clubs. Without them, we couldn't carry on our extracurricular activities.

Faculty

gave us those final exams.

Mrs. Casterline and Judy Voght proofread a page before it is sent in.

Judy Reed and Lou Orr type out captions during a Silicon staff meeting.

In late July the basic plans for the Silicon were laid at Indiana University's Journalism Institute. The actual work began shortly after the start of the first school term. Staff positions were established, and within a few months all advertisement donations were collected. Certain changes in the Silicon made for a better yearbook. Among these were the use of magazine paper and justified type.

The staff worked hard throughout the year, completing the Silicon during their spare time.

Lori Watson and Bob Irelan have the tedious job of indexing everyone in the entire yearbook.
